The Loveland Public Library and The Colorado State Library are partnering with the Interactivity Foundation (IF) to offer an immersive program to develop collaborative discussion skills.

This Collaborative Discussion Training is an intensive, 5-week online program that offers a deep dive into the Collaborative Discussion Toolkit, a collection of learning activities developed by educational and community-based partners. Through small group sessions, participants will learn how to use the toolkit to design their own certificate program in collaborative discussion.

After completing this training, successful participants will become coaches and be able to deliver their own, tailored certificate program in collaborative discussion within their communities. These might take the form of a community workshop series, classroom experience, or professional development training.

The Interactivity Foundation will be co-facilitating each session with community partners who will share their expertise in different dimensions of collaborative discussion.
